The Unicorn Children's Foundation 10th Anniversary Gala, Key to the Golden Palace, was a smashing success and surpassed its $1,000,000 goal during a spectacular evening under the stars at the legendary Mar-A-Lago Club in Palm Beach. Mr. Donald J. Trump, Grand Honorary Host and recipient of the Unicorn Children's Foundation Shining Star Award, welcomed guests and noted to the rapt audience that "having the Unicorn Children's Foundation here for so many years has been our honor."

Unicorn events have drawn international interest and notoriety as "can't miss" events. "We are so appreciative of more than 500 individuals who attended and participated in the silent and live auctions as well as our sponsors UBS Private Bank, Rosenberg Diamonds & Co., Ellagem, Shelley Resnick, Yocha and Aviva Schneider, and Hershel and Christine Victor for their support" said Laura Moore, the 2008 Gala Chair. Mr. Trump's Mar-A-Lago was transformed into an exotic oasis with belly dancers, live camels, and Moroccan tents.

To add further glitz to the already glamorous event, in attendance was internationally renowned singer, songwriter, and actor Pat Boone. Six year old prodigy Ethan Bortnick entertained the audience with classical and personal compositions, as well as with his wit and the winner of France's version of American Idol, Jeremie Meslati, had the ladies swooning as he performed Hello by Lionel Richie. The famous Ziegfeld Girls of Florida wowed the crowd not only with their beauty but also with their generosity—an unexpected and most spectacular $100,000 donation to the foundation.

Proceeds benefit the Unicorn Children's Foundation, an international organization dedicated to education, research and awareness initiatives on behalf of children affected by learning and communication challenges, such as autism, Aspergers, ADHD, dyslexia, and other general learning disorders.
