Bagpipes and Highland dress were the order of the day for the 50th Anniversary celebration of the American-Scottish Foundation at the annual Wallace Award Dinner presided over by Foundation President Alan L. Bain. The annual event which pays tribute to the achievements of Scottish Americans honored the prominent businessman, Euan Baird.

For over four decades, Mr. Baird worked with Schlumberger Ltd., serving as its Chairman and Chief Executive Officer from 1986 to 2003. In addition he held the position of non-executive Chairman of Rolls-Royce plc from 2002 to 2004. He serves on the boards of ScottishPower plc, Societe Generale Group and Areva is a trustee of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, a member of the French Prime Minister's Comite National de la Science and of the UK Prime Minister's Council of Science and Technology. Throughout his illustrious career, the Aberdeen, Scotland native has worked toward the expansion of cultural and business relationships between Scotland and the United States.

The American-Scottish Foundation is dedicated to strengthening ties between individuals, institutions and businesses of Scotland and the United States through the pursuit of contemporary social, cultural, educational, philanthropic, scientific and economic interests and activities. The Foundation champions the extraordinary and creative relationship between the U.S. and Scotland for mutual benefit. It provides Scots and Americans with a strong, non-political base and general point of contact. This association includes institutions and individuals with cultural, economic, educational, genealogical and travel interests.

The Wallace Award was originally conceived as a singular opportunity to celebrate the extraordinary diversity of contributions that Scots have made to the world and, in particular, to recognize individual outstanding achievement or significant contribution in their field of endeavor by Scottish individuals or those of Scottish descent in America and Canada.
