On January 13, 2007 the Coudert Institute of Palm Beach presented a program "The Brush and the Bow" with world-renowned cellist, Yahuda Hanani, accompanied by Adam Neiman on the piano. Hanani has performed with leading orchestras and as a soloist at Carnegie Hall. He is a Professor of Cello at the University of Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music and studied with Leonard Rose at the Julliard School and with Pablo Casals.

Adam Neiman made his concerto debut at age 11 in Los Angeles' Royce Hall. He has performed with many symphony orchestras and his talents extend to composing. He shared his latest composition with the attendees.

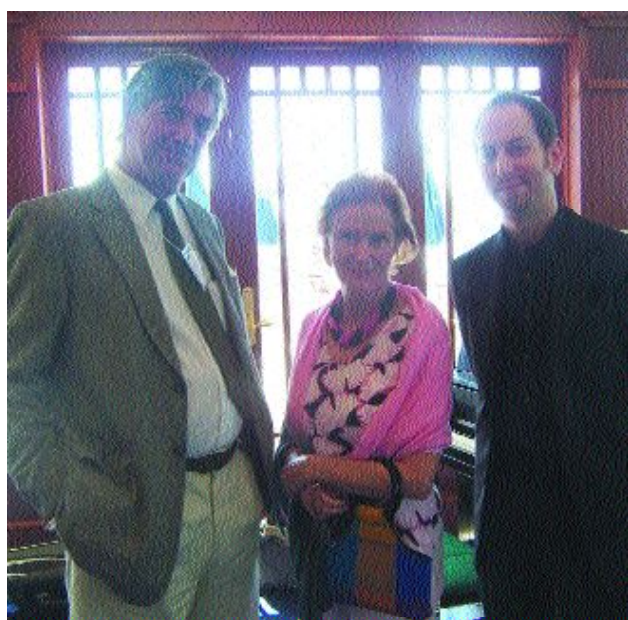

Yahuda and Adam both talked about the relationship of art and music. The Coudert Institute attendees were entertained with a recital after the seminar. For additional information contact the Coudert Institute at 561-659-9752 or www.coudertinstitute.com.
